Seminar Description

Renewable Energy has become an integral component in meeting our nation's energy demands. Wind energy projects in particular require legal expertise across many different legal disciplines and practice areas. This one-hour seminar will examine a wind energy project from a transactional attorney's perspective. We will discuss how a wind energy project is constructed and financed from the ground up, including the components and key terms in wind leases, permitting and governmental approvals, title curative work, project construction and finance, and more.
